Conclusions

- The relatively low stability of the threshold in a number of LatAm countries raises considerations for its implementation, in particular regarding requirements for regular updating of the threshold value applied in cost-effectiveness analysis.
- Countries looking to make use of the publicised thresholds should carefully consider how well these publicised values reflect their real threshold based on calculation of 3x GDP per capita.

References

http://www.who.int/choice/cost-effectiveness/en/
http://www.who.int/quantifying_ehimpacts/global/
http://www.who.int/choice/cost-effectiveness/en/
http://www.who.int/choice/cost-effectiveness/en/